Merry Christmas to all our readers

Where has 2007 gone?

Despite all good intentions only five newsletters went out this year and excuses sound lame at this point of the year, especially when we've had emails asking where they were. It's been a year of amazing busy-ness where, on reflection, a great deal was achieved - although not newsletter writing. Let us describe some of the activities.

ICFA Conference 2007 [Melbourne Oct. 2-5]

Jennifer was part of the planning team for this event - in truth the main excuse. From July every ounce of energy had to be focused on this event. Our vision was huge - 'to inspire the conference community to take action...to think big and use our skills to address big issues, such as sustainable resources, social inequalities and global disharmony' and 'to commit and act to fulfil our potential'. As coaches we have the skills to make a difference; we wanted to really challenge the profession. Feedback has been gratifying and the effort feels so worthwhile. In 2008 this company will aim to live up to those challenges.

Other milestones

Jennifer also managed to fit in:

- completion of training in the Genos Emotional Intelligence system - accreditation pending
- ran workshops on coaching in the workplace at two conferences in October_ the Australian Council of Educational Leaders (Sydney) and Qualcon (Melb)
- Installation as a Justice of the Peace (Victoria)
- development of a new website that will 'go live' early in 2008
- the writing of an article, at the request of The Age Career Guide December 1st see Any Questions
