

Group Coaching Program for Leaders in Education

What is Group Coaching

Group coaching is an opportunity to work with an experienced coach, in a small group of colleagues, all supporting you to achieve your own goals as you: develop new insights, realise your strengths, build confidence and learn strategies to apply in new situations.

Most educators have learned about the value of coaching; not everyone has the opportunity to work individually with a coach. Group Coaching is your answer. The possibilities:

- Stretch yourself and take on a project that you thought was out of reach
- Learn a structured process for achieving goals yourself in the future.
- Align your goals with the current thinking in educational leadership and give yourself a competitive edge
- Enjoy the journey: have fun sharing stories, supporting others, celebrating success.

How Group Coaching Works

- A small group of 4 – 8 people [Choose your own or join a group]
- Meet monthly for 1.5 – 3 hours over six months – interactive, challenging, fun
- An introductory session to clarify the coaching process
- Choose your own topic/goal to pursue and be supported as you make progress
- Receive personal and group email follow up as required
- All sessions are tailored to your group's needs and current challenges.

As a new and young Leading Teacher, coaching with Jennifer showed me how to interact with others and deal with challenges; it has also given me the courage and the faith to believe in myself and my goals for the future.
